Bolivia is a democratic republic located in central South America. It is one of two landlocked countries in the Americas. It is bordered by Brazil to the east, Paraguay and Argentina to the south, and Chile and Peru to the west. The population is around 10 million. It has the Andes Mountains to the west a high plateau in the southwest and the tropical Amazon basin to the north. Spanish is the main language, although there are many indigenous languages.

The largest religion is Christian, about 90%. Of those about 16% are evangelicals.

Prayer challenges: The good news of rapid church growth has led to a desperate need for trained clergy. There are theological schools, but there remains a need for thousands of leaders to be trained. Less reached groups include the wealthy upper class and young people under 30.
